They have been working some on the decoration, but haven't been too successful so far. The invitations have been sent, crepe paper has been ordered, so all that is left to do is decorate. This is the biggest dance of our school year and the only one in the new gym-so boys lets help the Juniors make a little money, get your dates and attend.

The girls came home with fine reports of an enjoyable weekend.

Meetings were held Friday and Saturday and they journeyed home Sunday. All in all they enjoyed their stay.

DEBATERS TIE LEWISTON

Like our athletic team, the Grangeville Debate Team made a very good showing by tying Lewiston for first place in the District Debate Tourney.

Our team is made up of four students. They are Chet Arnzen, Caroline Bailey, Maxine Pell and Elaine Smith. These students debate both sides of the question and have debated among them selves for quite a while.

The question being debated is the National High School question: "Resolved that the President of the United States be elected by direct vote of the people."

They left April 12 for the State Debate Tournament which will be held at Pocatello.

DAFFY DEFINITIONS

Life-- One thing after another.
Love - Two things after each other.
Head - A place for the hat when its not on the hat rack.

Cook your whole meal in the oven? Yes, this can be done, as was proven by Marian Bell and Gella Lee at the cooking school held March 28 at the Legion Hall.

Marian Bell made a ham loaf, paprika potatoes, savory string beans and a rubarb upside down cake. She put them all into the same oven, at the same temperature to cook the same length of time. Next Miss Bell made a peach spice cake explaining all the while about the new spices and urbs being distributed by the Crescent Company.

Gella Lee made a recipe of sweet yeast bread dough. She pounded it, threw it into the air and did everything except throw it into the audience. She made several variations of rolls and then showed us the finished products.
A drawing was held to conclude the afternoon. Many prizes were given away, some of which were won by the high school girls. Miss Bjorkland was lucky enough to win the bread that Gella Lee had just demonstrated to us.

HERE AND THERE

WE THANK YOU MR. X

Thank you, Townspeople! If it weren't for the merchant and citizens of our community, how much support would we have for Grangeville high school activities?

This is the schedule of Mr. X, who owns the corner grocery or the local hardware store during a term of Grangeville High.

The first week of school he is called upon by the business manager of the Informer for advertising. Without his ads, there would be no school paper.

Towards the middle of September the Grangeville grids start their season and Mr. X is right there to cheer them on their way. At 60 cents a game so goes out football expenses.

If we stop in his store, we have to push our way through posters-----our own posters. Sports, plays, concerts, dances are all successes thanks to him who is willing to clutter up his windows for our projects.

Next it's time for the Blue Camas, he puts in an ad to help us insure our 1950 annual which comes out in May. At the same time pushing its way in is basketball. Mr. X usually comes early to these games so he gets a choice seat.

Mr. X comes to the Junior and Senior plays, and all the band performances. He comes and if there isn't a seat available, that's all right----he smiles and stands.

Pretty busy fellow isn't he? And he will be until graduation time so when we say "thanks", let him know we really mean it. Show him we appreciate every thing he does by patronizing him. He is a pretty swell guy.

Miss Dye is coming up in the world, she received an orchid from her brother in Hollywood for her Birthday.

Another ring turned up in old G. H. S. Congratulations Evelyn, and also Roy's empty billfold.

Everyone is curious as to what the Junior Prom theme is. Was it changed? Guess we'll just have to go and find out.

Heard a lot of out of town students are coming to the Prom. Is it true, kids?

Senior play practice is starting again. Hope they get it memorized by April 4.

Memories of former year's Music Festivals seem to be popping up. Festivals and tournaments seem to always be something to remember and laugh about later.

BEHIND THE EIGHT BALL

Ted Jones was machine gunned to death today by Alvin Henderson directly in front of Robertson's Funeral Home.

It seems that Henderson had been holding a grudge over Jones for the past 59 years. Jones staggered out of the Bucket O'Blood Inn with Henderson's sixth wife on his arm and was confronted by Henderson racing madly down the loading ramp on his saddle horse.

The 59 year old grudge was over two things. Jones could talk faster than Henderson and Jones had also been going out with part of Henderson's harem.

After seeing Jones, Henderson became completely exasperated, dilarious, humiliated, or something, and immediately came back with his six shooting machine gun and mowed Jones to the ground. The one and only defensive weapon Jones had was an eight ball he stole from a pool tabel in Grangeville.

Henderson was last seen in the Gold Nugget Club in Las Vegas, Nevada with Slick Sides Sally. He has been going under several vicious names such as, Norman Henderson, Cecil Henderson and John Doe.

Oh Yes! It was the first name we mentioned. It seems there was once upon a time a certain gangster known as Norm Henderson. He had committed such a terrible crime that we dare not mention it in this dinky little paper. Anyway, Alvin Henderson was picked up and shot at sunrise that very night. Slick Sides Sally, better known in her younger days as Rosalie Space, was sentenced to hang by the feet until red in the face.

But the question at hand is Where is the eight ball that Jones threw at the murderer just before the crucial moment? Because of the loss of this ball, there has not been a pool game played in Grangeville for the past two days.

GRINDING AGAIN

Boy, were we ever lucky to have a whole three day vacation while the teachers went to Inland Empire Teachers Meeting at Spokane the 5th, 6th, and 7th of April. But here we are back on the old grind again with six weeks tests facing us also. Sure seemed good but it will seem better when schools out.

Joe and Glen couldn't get to Lewiston for the week-end?

The Junior Prom theme leaked out.

The annual got here before school was out?

Detention hall was empty for one night?

✓ All band members would take their horns home to practice.

✓ All girls got dates for the Jr. Prom.

Barbara H. cut her hair again. The Juniors would agree on the arrangements for their dance.

Two Men Killed in Gun Battle

Two men were shot to death on main street today.

After leaving Matt's pool hall, Hal Woodall and Ted Jones were pulled from a parked car, they were killed before they could draw guns from their holsters.

The apparent reason for the murders was revenge.

The two bodies were robbed of all valuables after the murder. The manager of Matt's Place told the Sheriff the men were carrying about two hundred dollars in cash on them. Seems they won the money at the Wednesday night show.

Funeral Services will be held at Schrom's Funeral home. Digger Schrom will take care of the bodies.

The blood stains left on the street were cleaned off by Mrs. Melcone Rainbow better known in her younger days as Bonnie Dye.

The funeral director said the gun shot left such a big hole in the heads of the bodies he would have to stuff a beer bottle in them.

The last person to see the two men alive was "Mrs. Digger Schrom." Better known in her younger days as "Girdles Sterns."

Hal's girl "Slew-foot Dennis" was so upset she went around shooting all of his enemy's with her six shooter. She shot Al (one finger) Henderson eight times. That is quite a trick with a six shooter. She later confessed and was sentenced to the most horrid kind of punishment, to listen to radio serials for a solid week.

The Sheriff, Bloody Fingers Higgins closed the case.

FADS AND FASHIONS

Although Spring hasn't hit Grangeville yet, some very nice spring coats are out of mothballs and on the backs of G. H. S. females. Some of the outstanding ones are; that pretty tan one with the brown scarf of Janet Wolfords, the twin tweed ones of Beverly A. and Barbara H., and that cute green raincoat with the checked trimming, which claims Shirley R. for its licky owner.

Not to be outdone by the girls in spring clothes in Jon Hauger who was sporting a very bee-u-ti-ful plaid shirt around school the other day.

The pixies have invaded G. H. S. that's what we think anyway when we catch an eyeful of those cute green shoes of B. Hibler and B. Atkins.

Seems as we're going from top to toe, for in the spotlight now is that autographed green hat of Ray Kennedy's.

Back to the toe, again--have any of you noticed those flashy and I mean "lit-up socks adorning the tiny feet of Al Henderson.

Some of this may seem old news by now, but as our last column was devoted to boys clothes, the girls are just getting back inot the spotlight.
